The Tuesday Morning Paint Group now has individual instruction, opinions, and critiques, of all media types for experienced artists by Ralph Fournier.

No registration necessary.

Bring your lunch, an art project, and drawing or painting supplies for a day of camaraderie and art.

The St. Louis Artists' Guild weekly painting groups are like open studio time. They are very casual and you can get many ideas and suggestions from your fellow artists. Bring your own materials but we have a tables, easels, and benches that can be used. It is a great opportunity just to come and be with other artists and have a place to create. This group has been meeting for over 30 years.

A Little about Ralph:

After finishing his education, Fournier went on to own his own architectural firm for thirty-six years. During that time, he did general architectural designing development and renderings. He retired from his business in 1989.

His work has been exhibited at Hogs Hollow and Creative Gallery of St. Louis and he has been a member of the St. Louis Artists' Guild for 23 years. His work includes seascapes, landscapes, religious themes, portraits, figures, nature, and narrative paintings. In all, Fournier has been associated with art, architectural drawing, painting, and sculpture for over sixty years.

Financial assistance for this project has been provided by the Regional Arts Commission.
